Subject: Taxing Gas at the Wholesale Level & Red Light Cameras

Please enter the following to the Congressional Record.

Requiring a tax onto the wholesalers instead of at the pump is a way to deflect the state's spending problems onto the oil companies.

This is not a transparent way of conducting business.

The people will not see the percentage of theft that is being committed by the state during their gas and oil purchases at the pump.

The state already has enough money per the Michigan CAFR report.

Concerning the construction of red light cameras at intersections has been clearly and loudly rejected in other states.

Again this is another miss use of government "force" upon the people all in the name of the state's spending problems.

I again refer you to the state's Comprehensive Annual Financial Report CAFR.

Respectfully,
